Bridge plan opposed

By JACK C. VENTIMIGLIA
Executive Editor

A tax proposal for four downtown St. Louis bridges started at ground zero Wednesday and has been exploded with several Missouri and Illinois officials.

"I think that there may be some other alternatives that need to be explored," said Jerry Costello of the sales tax.

As chairman of the East-West atway Coordinating Council, Costello appointed the bridge committee that recommended the tax. He also chairs the St. Clair County Board.

The proposed sales tax could amount to a quarter-cent and be placed on a region comprised of St. Clair and Madison counties, and the city and county of St. Louis.

Relieving the Poplar Street Bridge, and improving the Eads, McKinley, MacArthur and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. bridges is critical, said Costello. But he cannot support a tax for a bi-state commission to do the work because he said the states should do it.

"I don't think it's an impossible goal," Costello said of state-funded repairs. "I think it's the most attractive goal."

Also opposing the tax are St. Louis County Executive Gene McNary and Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer.

"Totally unacceptable," is how McNary described the tax.

"The final responsibility appropriately belongs to the two states and not to the local region," McNary said.

The proposed tax would be turned over to Madison County voters in a referendum, Hagnauer said.

Bridge owners also oppose the takeover plan.

The McKinley Bridge is owned by Venice, and the report suggests the bridge be purchased by taking over bond payments amounting to $13 million. Mayor Tyrone Echols said the price is too low.

"We don't want to give them a ham for a wienie," Echols said.

More than 30 full- and part-time jobs are supplied for the toll bridge and Echols said a bridge committee would cut tolls. He said that means cutting jobs and he is against it.

"Nobody's ever asked us if we'd be interested," said President B.C.

'We don't want to give them a ham for a wienie.'
—Tyrone Echols

Davidson of the Terminal Railroad Association, TRRA, located in St. Louis County, owns Eads Bridge.

"Everybody's making big plans, but they haven't talked to the owners," Davidson said.

Davidson said he understands the importance of the downtown bridges to the area's future, but is unsure what would be offered in exchange for use of the bridge.

"We have a real question about the need for a sales tax for something that is an obligation of the states," according to Jill Roach, director of Transportation Planning for St. Louis.

St. Louis owns the MacArthur Bridge, which closed to vehicular traffic in 1981 due to deck deterioration. The bridge committee's plan would restore the deck.

A spokesman for St. Louis Mayor Vincent Schoemehl said Thursday the mayor was not ready to make a statement on the plan.

The Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Bridge, owned by East St. Louis, has provided revenue to pay stockholders in a decade. Interest has accrued to more than $3 million and the principal exceeds $7 million.

The bridge committee considers the bridge vital as a reliever for the Poplar Street Bridge. A ramp could be provided from Interstate 70 to the King bridge. But East St. Louis Mayor Carl Officer is said to oppose the tax plan.

The sales tax is crucial to the bridge committee's plan for bridge renovation, but permission to form a bi-state taxing authority would have to be given by the Illinois and Missouri legislatures.

Area legislators should have been contacted concerning their views, said Sen. Kenneth Hall, D-East St. Louis. He said the council will contact him if it expects his support.

The proposed tax should not be implemented unless there is a referendum, according to Sen. Frank Watson, R-Carlyle. Representing parts of eastern St. Clair and Madison counties, Watson learned of the proposal through news services, as did Hall and Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville.

The three county board chairman do not support the tax and two oppose it, bridge owners were either neutral or outright sarcastic about giving up their bridges, area state senators had not been asked to support the tax prior to its proposal, the man who appointed the committee disagrees with its findings to start a tax.

The answer, according to some, is the state should use its gasoline tax revenues to address the bridge problem instead of forming a local tax district to do the job.

According to Echols, the plan for a downtown bridge commission has been tried before, as occurred in 1980. That plan failed.

Echols said, "It fell on its face then and I don't know what will be the outcome of it now."

Venice reaches agreement with Local 98 employees

By VALERIE EVENDEN

Salary increases and some minor changes in the policy are included in a new working agreement accepted Thursday night by negotiators for Local 98 of the Building Services Union and the Venice Board of Education.

Ratification by Venice School District and union officials is expected when the written contract is presented in final form. Venice Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers said.

The two-year contract calls for salary increases over the two-year period for custodians, cooks and secretaries, all of whom are members of Local 98.

Additionally, non-union employees including six aides, a bus driver, a bus driver-security guard and a part-time bus driver also received five percent increases for the 1985-86 school year, according to the district superintendent.

The previous contract with Local 98 expired today, June 30.

Negotiations between the board and union representatives have been ongoing for the past three months.

One change in the new contract specifies that personnel will not take a personal or emergency day's leave on the first or last week of the school year, Vickers said.

The new agreement applicable to the 14 union members includes increases of 45 cents per hour in each year of the two-year contract for custodial employees.

Secretaries will get a 40 cent-an-hour raise each year and cooks will receive a yearly increase of 35 cents an hour over the two-year period. Six of the 14 union employees work at the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center.

The one-year agreement with teacher's aides calls for raises from $4.55 an hour to $4.70 an hour. Aides with 30 hours of college credit will receive $4.94 an hour, up from $4.70.

A library aide will receive $5.15 an hour, up from $4.90, under the new contract.

The bus driver-security guard position calls for an hourly wage of $6.50, up from $6.20, and the bus driver post was raised from $5.50 to $5.75 an hour.

"We are pleased about reaching this agreement," Vickers said Friday. He noted the Venice teachers' federation still has another year to go on its union contract.

Zone approval made official

Hopes for substantial increases in employment, industry and revenue became a possibility Thursday when parts of Madison County, Granite City, Madison and Venice were officially declared an enterprise zone.

The Southwestern Madison County Enterprise Zone was one of 12 zones signed into law by Gov. James R. Thompson.

Since 1983, Illinois had designated 32 enterprise zones across the state. State law allows a total of 48 zones.

In a letter read at a press conference at the Tri-City Regional Port District Thursday, Thompson pointed out some of the program's assets.

"An excellent example of local units of government working together to improve their economy is found in Madison County," Thompson's letter read. "The county, Granite City, Madison and Venice have joined forces. These cooperative efforts will help increase the area's ability to attract suppliers to auto manufacturers, expand the use of the Foreign Trade Zone and improve infrastructure."

According to Thompson, nearly 10,000 jobs have been created and retained within zone areas for an anticipated total investment of $36 million since the program began.

The Southwestern Madison County Enterprise Zone is 9.57 square miles. The term of the zone is 20 years.

Economic development incentives for the zone include a sales tax credit, four-year abatement of property taxes on improvements, marketing and technical assistance support and targeting of other programs to the zone.

The zone will be administered by a managing board made up of Madison County Board Chairman Nellie Hagnauer, Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse, Madison Mayor John Bellcoff and Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols.

Hagnauer will be chairman of the governing body, with Cruse, Bellcoff and Echols being the voting members of the board. Hagnauer will only be able to cast a vote when one of the voting members is absent and a tie exists.

The governing board will act on recommendations from the Economic Development Committee.

According to Aaron Ridenour, Madison County economic development coordinator, the committee

Fireworks pros

They'll light up our lives

By DAVE WHALEY

There are hours of fun to be had at this week's Fourth of July carnival in Wilson Park.

There will be rides, food, music and fun for all.

But nothing at the carnival will be quite as spectacular or entertaining as what will happen Thursday evening at 9 p.m.

"At that time, a display will take place at the park that will end the carnival with, shall we say, a bang."

"Star Fireworks of Danville, Ill., is again providing almost $6,000 worth of materials for a spectacular ground and aerial fireworks display."

The show will last approximately 40 to 45 minutes, according to John Lakin, recreation supervisor for the Granite City Park District.

"We have had close to 20,000 people here for the fireworks the past couple of years," Lakin said. "We would hope to get that many here again this year. They really have some nice things set up for the display."

Included in the display will be scenes such as an alligator eating fish, the Statue of Liberty, Niagara Falls (complete with fish jumping around the falls), a bear approaching a beehive and, of course, the United States flag.

"There's quite a bit to it," Lakin said. "They have people up there who come up with these designs, then they will send three or four people down here on Thursday to help our people with the set-up. They will have to start very early in the morning and they won't be finished setting up until the evening right before the show."

Lakin said the display will take up most of the outfield of Diamond 7 at the park.

"They have to get all the frames set up and put a great deal of piping in the ground," he said. "It really takes someone who knows what he is doing."

The park district will also be required to have a fire truck and ambulance on hand, just in case.

"We've never had any major problems in the past," Lakin said. "But it's a good idea to have them there."

Lakin said the district is very happy with Star Fireworks.

"It's a good company," he said. "We've never had any problems with them, and this is their fifth year with us."

The display was delivered to Granite City Tuesday and is being kept in a back room at the park offices.

"I can't really open the boxes up now," Lakin said. "We're going to keep them closed until Thursday. We want to be very careful about this, especially after hearing about what happened in Oklahoma (21 people killed at a fireworks plant after an explosion). We won't allow any smoking in this room while they're here. Also, we're careful not to let any water get in here from outside because that would ruin the whole display."

Lakin said there is always the chance of the displays not working, but there has never been a major problem.

"There's really no way we can test them beforehand, obviously," he said. "It's really hit and miss. But the ground displays have always gone off without any problems. We have had some of the air displays not work just right, but it's never ruined the show."

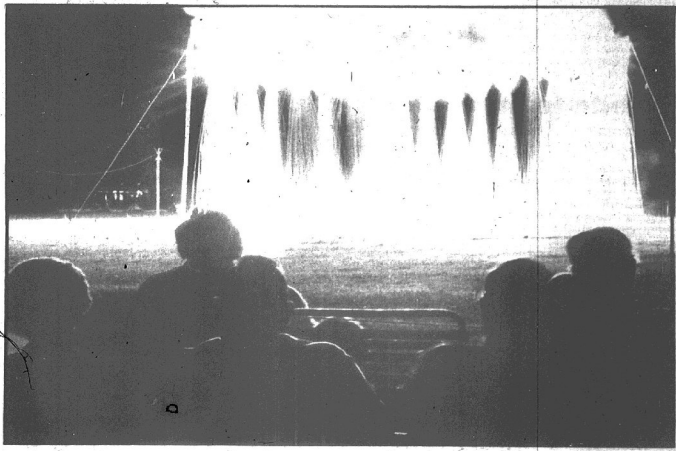

For those with sensitive ears, things could get a little noisy. The opening display will feature 15 heavy ground reports fired in rapid succession, then 136 reports will go off high in the air.

According to information released by Star Fireworks, "this opening set will alert everyone that the display has begun."

Yeah, that should do it.

There will be 12 different ground displays and no fewer than 59 aerial displays before a "grand finale."

To find out what that is, be at the park at 9 p.m. Thursday.

Fire falls

NIAGARA FALLS. No, that's not really the great waterfall in upstate New York. It's fireworks by Star Fireworks of Danville, Ill., last year at the 4th of July carnival at Wilson Park. Star will again be supplying fireworks for this year's show.

Dentist has x-rays of Josef Mengele's teeth

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The positive identification of the remains dug up in Brazil and claimed to be those of Dr. Josef Mengele may depend on the examination of seven teeth that were found. And the man who could be all-important in that investigation is a 78-year-old retired dentist living in uneasy seclusion in the Black Forest.

The recluse was Mengele's dentist and close friend when the future Nazi war criminal was a young man in Gunzburg, the Bavarian town where the Mengele family is still prominent. Our associate Lucette Lagnado tracked down the dentist and was the first person to interview him about his former friend and patient.

Understandably hoping to avoid being besieged by the world press, the old man pleaded for anonymity, and our associate agreed that we would not publish his name or the location of his modest hilltop home in a picturesque region of southwest Germany. Neil Sher, head of the Justice Department's Office of Special Investigations, also wanted to speak with the dentist. When Sher agreed to honor the no-publicity commitment, we provided the name and address of this potentially crucial witness.

The dentist treated Mengele in the late 1920s and early 1930s, when he was just starting his practice in Gunzburg and Mengele was finishing high school and on his way to university. They continued to see each other, on a personal and professional basis, when Mengele returned from the university and later when he joined the Wehrmacht.

Over the years, the dentist gradually discarded his patients' records, but his personal testimony could be more significant than the skimpy SS dental records that are all the investigators now have to go on. These records don't include X-rays, which were not in widespread use for routine dental procedures in the '30s, as they are today.

The interview with our associate made clear that the old man's memory is sharp in other respects. He recalled with a shudder that Mengele was extremely nervous in the dentist's chair — a chilling irony considering the horrors that Mengele later wreaked on helpless victims in his Auschwitz "laboratory."

Although the dentist was four years older than the future "Angel of Death," they became good friends. Mengele, he said, showed no interest in politics or the Nazi party, which in those days was struggling from radical obscurity to become the all-powerful political force in Germany. The young Mengele was a social butterfly, the dentist indicated, attending parties and dances and romancing the young women of Gunzburg. He was handsome, well-mannered — and wealthy. The dentist described Mengele as "very nice ... friendly ... charming ... thoroughly likeable." He was, his old friend said, "like everybody else, an average young man."

WHO'S NEWS? Richard Nixon is getting positively mellow in his dealings with his old nemesis, the press. Sarah McClendon — the tireless Texas reporter who has covered the White House in her uniquely feisty way since the days of FDR — invited the former president to be her guest at the White House correspondents' dinner last April. Nixon declined graciously, writing: "I am delighted ... that you are still stirring things up with your provocative questions and presidential news conferences. ... Your questions over the years at times may have been difficult to respond to, but you were never dull."

EXECUTIVE MEMO: In a written response to a congressional query about the Warsaw Pact nations of Eastern Europe, the Defense Intelligence Agency referred to NATO's archenemy as the "Warsaw Pack." At least, the DIA didn't call it the "Warsaw PAC," which might have led the honorable members to wonder what Polish lobbying group they were dealing with.

101 THINGS TO DO WITH A DEAD FAT CAT...

Levee district reviewed

The mission of the Metro-East Sanitary District is to drain surface water and maintain ditches and levees in portions of Madison and St. Clair counties.

The district was formed in 1907 as the East Side Levee and Sanitary District. In December 1976, the Metro-East Sanitary District replaced the East Side Levee and Sanitary District.

The Metro-East Sanitary District is responsible for the flood protection of 100 square miles and 80 square miles in greater portions of Madison and St. Clair counties. There are three major drainage ditches and five minor ditches. The Cahokia Canal drains the major portion of the drainage out of the Madison County portion of the district. Nantooki Ditch drains Granite City into the Horseshoe Lake and then into the Cahokia Canal.

Metro-East Sanitary District

SHANG GREATHOUSE is the executive director of the Metro-East Sanitary District which operates and maintains flood-relief and sewage projects in Madison and St. Clair counties.

operates a total of nine pump stations and pumps billions of gallons of surface water out of the area. The electric bills for the pump stations alone is in excess of $300,000 per year. These stations must be mained 24 hours a day, seven days a week when the Mississippi River is above 17 feet or if we have a heavy interior rain. The North Pump Station, located in East St. Louis, pumps the water out of the Cahokia Canal. There are four 500-horsepower pumps and one 500-horsepower pump that pump 139,000 gallons per minute back into the river.

The number of employees has been cut from over 200 to approximately 50 in an effort by the board to live within our budget. The operating expenses have increased tremendously. The electric bills to Union Electric alone have increased from $40,000 to over $300,000 per year. This is due not only to increased costs of electricity, but the doubling and tripling of rainfall within the district.

We have the same identical tax rate that we had in 1907. Our expenses are climbing at a more rapid rate than the assessed evaluation in both Madison and St. Clair counties. The board is presently searching for ways to operate more economically and efficiently and still provide the services that are expected of us.

To the Editor:

Congratulations to you all on the way you merged our two great newspapers into one and at the same time allowed each of them to retain their own identity: the Granite City Journal on Wednesday, the Press-Record on Thursday and on the Sunday combination of both newspapers. You are giving us good news coverage, your reporters are doing a good job. I have heard many favorable comments.

Your advertisers have been loyal to both papers, and that's what keeps any newspaper going. They know advertising in your papers pays off; they get results.

I read of an old timer who ran a country store. A man came by and tried to sell the old man advertising in the local paper. The old man replied, "Nope, I'm not interested. Few years ago I tried advertising and people came in and bought all my merchandise. I had almost an empty store."

Keep up the good work.

However, we enjoy reading it whenever it appears and are so glad the column is now syndicated.

Parents should teach children bike safety

To the Editor:

I have never written a letter to a newspaper before but feel it is necessary for me to do so now. Here it is summer again, school is out and the kids are busy as ever being kids; having fun with their friends, swimming, fishing, playing baseball, etc. In our subdivision a big recreation seems to be bicycling, and some of these kids are running amuck. I hope I can safely say that those of us who have been blessed with little ones really do care about them and would do anything to avoid any harm coming to them. It is for this reason that I am writing this letter, so that if you are a parent living in Quiet Valley and your child is riding a bicycle on our streets, take a few minutes time to talk to them and go over a few safety rules with them for safe, courteous bicycle riding.

I recently stored a boy approximately 7-8 years old after seeing two cars, coming in opposite directions on Pontoon Road, barely miss hitting him with their cars. He then proceeded to cut through a service station parking lot, cut across southbound traffic on Highway 111, jump the median and continue through the northbound traffic until he had reached the entrance to Quiet Valley. I expressed my concern to him that he had narrowly missed being hit and he told me "I know what I'm doing."

As adults, we have a certain responsibility to our kids to teach them safety rules, courtesy to others and respect for things that might bring them harm. Could that 7-8 year old child have been yours?

Mobile team could give terrorists their own medicine

Sadness and worry are being replaced with anger, frustration and embarrassment at our apparent inability to stop the hostage crisis from wearing on and on.

Our national pride is endangered, and my personal attitude affected. I am not being entirely facetious by wishing a James Bond or a Rambo would appear on the scene, effect an all-out rescue mission and put an end to these murderous barbarians.

We grieved for the young sailor who was beaten nearly to death and then summarily shot by the fanatical terrorists.

We anguished for his family and the families of the other passengers and crew on Flight 447 imprisoned by the vicious fanatics.

But, let's look ahead.

All indications are this type of terrorism is not going to stop and its ultimate aim is to confine us, using fear tactics, within our own national boundaries.

That's right back into the 19th Century and I, for one, don't want to be forced into submission.

Columnists' club

Perhaps my current feelings reflect a national trend. I'm not as militant as I used to be and diplomacy is more preferable in most circumstances.

Horrible situations brought daily through newspapers and nightly over television have compressed the world into my own backyard.

I think and I worry where all this deliberate degradation of the United States of America is leading.

Perhaps we need to form a small, elite and very mobile team, comprised of Green Beret or British commando types.

The kind of men we need in wartime and then conveniently forget when peace, uneasy or not, reigns supreme.

Personally, I don't want to know their backgrounds, not even their names, ranks or serial numbers, and nothing about their families.

We should pay them extremely well. Over and above the usual stipend reserved for the military.

All branches of the Armed Forces should be solicited for such individuals. If they can't be found, mercenaries should be considered.

The present Rapid Deployment units and even the elite Delta Force appear to be too big to respond in a fast-moving terrorist situation, when movement and response time must be covert and immediate.

About 30 men should be a workable force with maybe 10 replacements.

Their weapons must be the latest obtainable; military research and development can devise them if they're not on-hand, and the team's expertise must be paramount in everything from underwater demolition to guerrilla warfare.

Such a force should be moved with regularity to different parts of the world, without anyone following on its heels. Security should be as tightly maintained as that surrounding SAC or NORAD.

Its members should be used sparingly, but must always be ready to respond to a terrorist action or similar crisis anywhere in the world. Responsibility for activation of such a force should rest with the nation's executive branch.

A fail-safe set of controls should be implemented, but intervention in order to impede the team's effectiveness should not be tolerated.

Wistful, thinking on my part???

Perhaps not.

Someone must take the initiative and put a stop to these tribal barbarians who are operating on an international level.

Why not the world's greatest nation which celebrates its 209th birthday this week?

Unfavorable news one reason some oppose a vigorous press

Some politicians suffer from the "little boy" syndrome. They don't like being shown with hands in the cookie jar.

If a politician doesn't like a story, it's fashionable to say the media oppose him.

He's half right.

If a politician asks questionably, the media, particularly newspapers, editorialize.

For example, when a village vehicle was peppered by gunfire in the Cahokia, the hometown newspaper

The media mandarin

by Jack Ventimiglia

asked who did it. The question has not been answered, though the street superintendent paid the bill. The Cahokia Journal editorialized the public should know what happened.

In Granite City, the Press-Record criticized a policy that would not let a township resident speak because he was not on the agenda.

In these and other editorials, the media are biased and say so.

But some politicians discard unfavorable news as biased. They are the Richard Nixons of today. Their hands, still in the cookie jar, are raised in accusation as they lament of the media, "They're picking on me!"

Bad editing, ignorance or actual intent sometimes allow bias to slither into the news. But most media members go out of the way to be fair and they succeed.

This newspaper also strives to be fair. Comments are labeled as such. We seek both sides of every story.

That is how to earn the public's trust.

Some will still lament media bias. They should. It exists. But we doubt complaints from those who wear cookie jars.

Venice school buildings are insured, but Granite City schools may lose it

By VALERIE EVENDEN

Insurance covering school buildings and for school-related purposes is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain. But unlike some neighboring districts, which have yet to obtain necessary insurance for the coming year, the Venice schools are now covered, Jim Henderson of Leaders Agency informed the Venice Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night.

Some major differences are noticeable in the new policy, the board members learned.

In the previous insurance contract, the school buildings and their contents were insured for $6,608,300, written on a replacement cost policy.

The new insurance, now on an actual cost basis, includes a depreciation clause and lists a total amount of $5,235,500 for all buildings.

Two previous items included in the former contract also are omitted in the new policy, Henderson said.

Excluded are coverage of thefts from school offices and a contractual portion which covered nurse aide students from Venice-Lincoln Technical Center during training at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis.

Both these exclusions caused considerable concern among board members.

Liability insurance, amounting to $500,000, and $100,000 boiler coverage remains the same, Henderson advised.

The former insurance package cost $16,618 annually, whereas the new insurance will bear an estimated annual fee of more than $18,000, minus theft and contractual coverage.

Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers commented, "That's about $2,600 more in cost and 20 percent less on coverage."

Board member Kirk Gardner asked whether other school districts are having similar problems obtaining insurance.

"They certainly are," Henderson replied. "Granite City (school district) doesn't have any insurance as of July 1. Madison County's expires the first of August and they can't replace their insurance," he said.

"Insurance companies have really tightened up in the last two years. One of the major problems is from the number of asbestos suits."

"Because of the (amount) awards in other (court) suits, Madison and St. Clair counties do not have a very good name with insurance companies," Henderson said.

"This is the best I could do and it is a very good rate," Henderson said. "You've been lucky with basically no losses. Granite City has had some bad losses."

"We may still get the theft contract through, but as of today I don't have it," he stressed.

Concern was expressed by Peter Ponce, Venice-Lincoln Technical Center director, about the lack of contractual insurance, relating specifically to students involved in the federal- and state-supported school.

VLTC has an agreement with St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis, which serves as an on-the-job training site for the students.

"The nurse aide program is one of our most successful programs, and I'm wondering if it is going to cause a problem with the hospital," he said.

He was advised to notify St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis of the lack of this type of insurance.

"It is very tough to get insurance in the public sector in relation to medical (malpractice)," Henderson said; but he agreed to seek further information about this type of policy on a separate basis from other district coverage.

In other business, the board awarded two contracts to remodel the girls' shower room in the Venice High School to Grove Plumbing and Heating Co. of Granite City.

One of the contracts itemized costs of $1,760 for material and labor to tile all four walls and floor in the shower room.

The second contract involved plumbing work and shower replacements and was awarded to Grove on a bid of $2,450.

Color-coded drivers licenses could be issued to minors

Tavern owners, bartenders and liquor store cashiers will be able to easily identify persons under 21 under a bill sent to the governor, according to Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

Edgar said HB 430 will require that drivers between 16 and 21 be issued specially color-coded licenses.

"As it is now, dimly lit taverns and restaurants, and the small print on a drivers license make it difficult to check identification," Edgar said. "With this bill, those under 21 will be easily recognized because of a bright red border around their drivers license. It will be a convenience and a protection for those who sell alcohol, and it will prevent underage persons from buying it."

In addition to the red border around the drivers license, the field behind the photo will also be red and the back of the license will carry the notation "under 21." There are 750,000 drivers under 21 in Illinois.

If signed by the governor, the measure would take effect Jan. 1, 1986. It would be phased in with drivers who apply for new or renewed licenses.

Gateway BPW hears goals of Phoenix Crisis Center

Maxine Hoelter, administrator of the Phoenix Crisis Center in Granite City, organized in April of this year, spoke at the general meeting of Gateway Business and Professional Women's organization.

The crisis center is a non-profit organization and initially established goals to help abused women and children in the Quad-City area. They have a hotline for those in need of immediate help, Mrs. Hoelter said.

She added that referrals are made to Oasis in Alton and a center in Belleville, however, both places are over crowded and a facility to house women and children in this area is needed immediately.

One fourth of all murders are between spouses and one fourth of police deaths are a result of their trying to intervene in a violent domestic conflict, Mrs. Hoelter explained.

"We are now completing guidelines that will include counseling for both the victim and the perpetrator, and the main thing to remember is that most people who commit violent acts against a spouse or child are those who experienced the same situation in their youth," she said.

The organization has sponsored fundraising projects to secure basic funds and will continue to apply for grants from the state and federal governments to assist in buying a home or apartment complex where abused people can be taken immediately into better arrangements can be finalized, Mrs. Hoelter explained.

In conclusion she showed a film of a family undergoing the stress and hostility of this type of life and the injuries sustained when the arguments become violent.

She asked for volunteers who would consider helping with the support system, and added the group needs financial donations, people to help with fund raising programs and office personnel, those willing to be trained in talking with people who are in the home.

In other business, President Judith McCann distributed a year-long calendar of meetings and events and informed the members they are eligible to attend the monthly meetings of the President's Council.

The reviewed the newsletter, urged all to become active in the long- and short-range programs of the organization and to keep in mind goals set for each committee held projected aim for the year.

The next meeting will be July 15. Any working woman interested in attending may call Judy Puryear, membership chairman, at 452-3028.

Apartment buildings approved for Venice

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

A $100,000 apartment building will be constructed in Venice by Henry Baucum, who was granted a building permit by the Venice City Council at its meeting Tuesday night.

The brick and frame structure, to be located on property at 1203 and 1205 Market St., Venice, will contain four two-bedroom apartments and two three-bedroom units, the permit stated.

Tentative approval, pending payment of the building permit fee, also was given to Curtis King Sr., who requested a permit to construct a two-story brick apartment building.

Estimated cost of the 10-room structure is $40,000 and construction will take place at 87 Weaver St., King said.

A third building permit was approved, pending receipt of the fee, for Wallace Dandridge to construct a frame garage at 529 Mercedocia Ave.

Mayor Tyrone Echols announced a public hearing on the 1985-86 appropriation ordinance will take place at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 9, in the City Council chambers.

Echols referred a report from the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council's bridge study committee, concerning proposals to rejuvenate four bridges across the Mississippi River, to McKinley Bridge Manager Tom Fields.

The mayor noted the study was compiled by a task force headed by Dr. Earl Lazerson, president of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"I haven't had time to read through it yet," the mayor said, holding up an inch-thick document. "It's pages long and I think the McKinley Bridge is mentioned three or four times in it."

"I will say that no one can tell me what will become of the jobs on the bridge. They were 'gungho' on getting this report, but I think their main areas of concern are convenient avenues to get downtown (St. Louis)," Echols said to the aldermen.

"I doubt if there is anything in this report any different than what they've been feeding me over the last six years," the mayor said, adding, "If the federal government comes in to fix the bridge, it then becomes toll free and that means no jobs down there."

"This has been ongoing for years. Now, they are looking at the condition of all bridges over the Mississippi," Echols said.

The city-owned McKinley Bridge presently has 18 fulltime employees and two part-time workers.

Fourth Ward Alderman Charles Haynes commended the young people who are cutting the grass and cleaning vacant property as part of the city's summer cleanup program.

"They are doing a wonderful job," the alderman said.

'The President' returns to St. Louis

America's largest cruising riverboat, The President, will return to the St. Louis Harbor after an absence of 45 years, and an inaugural cruise has been scheduled for Monday, July 8. This first scheduled cruise is being sponsored by the American Association of Railroaders Inc., a non-profit educational and historical organization, as a benefit for the St. Louis and Chain of Rocks Railroad Museum.

Boarding will take place after 10:30 a.m., with the 2½-hour cruise leaving the dock (near the Arch) at 11 a.m. The return is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. In addition to the opportunity to be aboard this historic first cruise, the sightseeing of the harbor area from any one of the five decks will provide the passenger with an excellent vantage point or a location to enjoy the wide variety of on-board activities.

Passengers may visit the games arcade or gift shop, enjoy the live music in the ballroom, listen to the captain's narration on passing sights, have a drink in the President's Club Lounge or just do some riverboat relaxing as the calliope plays a concert. Snacks and complete food service also are available. The boat, which started out as a steam powered side-wheeler, served St. Louis from 1932 until it was replaced by the Admiral in 1940. Since that time, the President has operated out of New Orleans and was converted to diesel power in the recent past.

Passengers on this cruise also will be given information about the SL&CR Railroad, which operates a free admission rail museum offering train rides on the bank of the Mississippi River at the city water works near the channel that the President cruised in years gone by. The fare for this adventure is $10 for adults and $6 for children (age 12 and under), which includes a commemorative certificate. Reservations may be made by sending a check and a large, self-addressed stamped envelope to AAR, 3422 Osage St., St. Louis, Mo. 63118. For more information, phone: 1-314-752-3148.

Benefit dance slated July 13 to help defray medical costs

A benefit dance is being held July 13 at the Polish Hall in Madison for Catie DeCourcy, 3, of Granite City, a leukemia victim. The dance is being sponsored by concerned local citizens to help pay for the escalating costs of Catie's treatments. Nostalgia, a 15 piece band with the big band sounds of the '40s and '50s will play for the event.

In November 1984, Catie started a three-year medical treatment procedure consisting of chemotherapy, drugs and transfusions in an attempt to arrest this sometime fatal disease. Catie's disease is currently in remission. As of April of this year, she began a maintenance program, but she still has almost two years of treatments to go.

Catie has an identical twin sister, Sara, who is also undergoing periodic cautionary testing because the risk factor is increased for identical twins. Tests have not found any symptoms of leukemia in Sara.

A donation of $2.50 is being asked for the dance tickets and are available at Granite Bowling Center and the Madison Street Department.

Area zone hailed

Local reaction from area officials to the naming of the Southwestern Madison County Enterprise Zone was favorable Thursday.

"The county views the enterprise zone designation as a very positive step and feels that this zone will be one of the most successful in the state of Illinois," said Madison County Board Chairman Nellie Hagnauer.

"This designation exhibits a high degree of cooperation, and it is our hope that it will make this a more economically viable area for the future."

Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse also was optimistic about the designation.

"I believe this could really be a turning point for the possibility of industrial growth in this area," he said.

"Geographically, we've always had a good location — with railroad, highway and river transportation. With this designation, we can also offer tax incentives to industries to locate here and to local businesses for expansion."

Madison Mayor John Belcoff said Madison will cooperate "wholeheartedly" with the county, Granite City and Venice.

"As a group, we'll be able to compete for industries Madison alone could not have gotten," he said. "If we band together, I feel it will be a successful move for all of us."

Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols also spoke of cooperation among the entities involved.

"I want to echo John's sentiment about having intergovernmental cooperation here," he said. "If we work together, it will serve as a catalyst to attract new business."

Zone

has not yet been established, nor has a schedule of committee or board meetings been set up.

Legislation concerning the establishment of federal enterprise zones was introduced by members of the former Congress, but has not been introduced as of yet in this session of Congress, according to David Carle, press secretary for Sen. Paul Simon, D-Illinois.

Carle said it is possible the legislation could be reactivated within the next two years.

If the legislation is passed, chances that the Tri-Cities enterprise zone would be considered for non-zoned areas of the state.

When the federal bill was introduced in 1984, it included tax incentives for zones, such as targeted job credits, investment tax credits and money for retraining workers.

Remember ... Charcoal cooking flavors your meat for July 4th fun

By Olivia and Paul Bensen
Copley News Service

Not long ago a friend visiting from New York introduced us to a new way to prepare shrimp over a charcoal fire. He simply mixed the unpeeled shrimp with some lemon juice, oil, ginger, garlic and seasonings, wrapped the mixture in a double layer of aluminum foil, folded it into a sort of pouch and cooked the mixture over a charcoal fire for several minutes. The result was a delicate, light entree with the qualities of both steamed and charcoal shrimp — a delightful combination.

We decided to apply our friend's method to scallops, beans and potatoes, as well as to shrimp, to produce an easy and varied menu that combines the tastes of several cuisines. The whole dinner can be prepared and cooked in an hour or less, and since all four courses are cooked over a single charcoal fire, each wrapped in its own foil envelope, there are no pots and pans to wash, and no messy stove to clean.

For the potatoes, we decided on a Greek treatment, with olive oil, Greek seasoning, vinegar, scallops and Greek onions. The beans are decidedly Italian, with oiled tomatoes (available at specialty food stores), tomato puree, oregano, olive oil and onion.

The shrimp, as mentioned above, are Chinese style, with sesame oil (available at oriental specialty stores), ginger, garlic and lemon juice. The scallops have no particular national allegiance, and are simply a delicate mixture of butter, lime juice, parsley, wine and, of course, scallops. We used small bay scallops, but either sea or bay scallops would be fine.

The vegetable dishes cooked for about 30 minutes over a fairly hot charcoal fire, while the shrimp and scallops took only 8 to 10 minutes, so plan to place the vegetables on the grill well in advance of the seafood.

This technique produced such satisfying results that we'll be experimenting soon with some other foil-wrapped recipes for cooking over charcoal.

CHINESE-STYLE SHRIMP IN FOIL

8 ozs. shrimp, rinsed but not shelled
2 tbsps. fresh ginger, minced
1 tsp. fresh garlic, minced

Juice of 1/2 lemon
1 tbsp. peanut or vegetable oil
1/4 tsp. Chinese sesame oil

In medium bowl, mix together all ingredients. Place shrimp mixture on double thickness of aluminum foil. Seal sides and ends of foil together, leaving small opening at top for steam to escape.

Cook over charcoal fire 8 to 10 minutes, depending on how hot fire is.

ITALIAN BEANS IN FOIL

1 tbsp. olive oil
1 small onion, finely chopped
1/2 cup tomato puree
2 tbsps. chopped oil-cured tomatoes
1/4 tsp. oregano
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
8 ozs. string beans, trimmed

In small bowl, combine all ingredients except beans. Lay beans, all facing the same direction, on double sheet of aluminum foil. Spoon tomato mixture over them. Seal sides and ends of foil together, leaving small opening at top for steam to escape.

Cook over charcoal fire 30 to 40 minutes, depending on how hot fire is.

GREEK POTATOES IN FOIL

8-10 small to medium red potatoes, halved and cut into 1/2-inch slices
6 scallions, cut in 1/2-inch slices (greens included)
2 tbsps. Greek seasoning
4 tbsps. olive oil
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. black pepper
1 1/2 tbsps. vinegar
8 Greek olives
2 tbsps. butter, cut into bits

In large bowl, toss potato slices with scallions, Greek seasoning, oil, salt, pepper and vinegar. Place potato mixture on double layer of foil, add olives and butter, and pinch top and sides of foil together, leaving small opening at top for steam to escape.

Cook over charcoal fire 30 to 40 minutes depending on how hot fire is, opening foil and tossing ingredients couple of times during cooking. Serves 4.

Independence means a picnic pleasure

By Diane Savage
Copley News Service

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

The Declaration of Independence is a wonderful piece of work. If you haven't seen it since high school civics class, pull it down from the shelf, brush away the dust and give it a look this Fourth of July to remind yourself what Independence Day is all about.

It's more than fireworks and a day home from work. It's a celebration of the ideals that have made our nation great.

An informal resolution that the American Colonies should be free and independent states was first drafted in June 1776 by Virginia's Richard Henry Lee. Congress adopted the motion July 2, and John Adams confidently declared that Americans would ever after celebrate that day with fireworks.

But a more formal document was required to make the act official, and after some deliberation the brilliant young Thomas Jefferson was elected to compose a Declaration of Independence. Congress approved Mr. Jefferson's pronouncement July 4, and this is the date that is now annually commemorated with fireworks and cheers.

This Fourth of July, pack yourself a healthful vegetarian picnic basket with today's recipes (great for your constitution). Enjoy the summer weather and the evening's fireworks — and don't forget to celebrate Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness.

Microwave your BBQ this year

By Desiree Viveca
Copley News Service

Thanksgiving means turkey, the favored dish at Easter is ham and for a real Fourth of July celebration, the traditional backyard barbecue is a must.

Outdoor cooking is great during the summer months. The kitchen doesn't heat up, and you get a chance to improve your tan as you cook. There is, however, one drawback to barbecuing: Meats too often end up charred and dry on the outside and undercooked on the inside.

Microwaved meats, on the other hand, emerge very tender and juicy, but lack that wonderful flavor that only the barbecue can impart. The solution? Combine microwave and grill for perfectly cooked, tender and flavorful barbecued foods.

Microwave precooking cuts down the amount of time needed on the grill, so thicker pieces of meat (like chicken, ribs, London broil, etc.) don't dry out over the coals. To precook chicken pieces, place in glass baking dish, cover, and microwave three to four minutes per pound. For London broil, microwave two to three minutes per pound. Finish on grill to desired doneness.

For a large party, have one batch precooking while another is finishing up on the outdoor grill. And while you have the coals going, barbecue some extra meat to freeze (for no longer than six months). Then just defrost and reheat in the microwave for great barbecue flavor, another day—but without the messy cleanup.

BARBECUED RIBS

2 1/2 lbs. meaty spareribs
1 recipe Savory Barbecue Sauce (recipe follows)

Arrange ribs in flat oblong glass baking dish, meatiest portions toward outside. Brush liberally with Savory Barbecue Sauce.

Cover dish tightly with plastic wrap and microwave 5 minutes on HIGH (100 percent) power setting. Then reduce power to MEDIUM (50 percent power), and microwave 20 minutes longer, turning ribs and basting after 10 minutes.

Transfer partially cooked ribs to grill and barbecue, basting often, another 20 to 25 minutes, or to desired doneness.
Serves 4 to 6.

SAVORY BARBECUE SAUCE

1 cup ketchup
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 tbsps. minced onion
2 tbsps. firmly packed brown sugar
1 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. chili powder
1 tsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. garlic salt

Diving catch prolongs Triplets' loss streak

By JOE THOMPSON
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Tri-City Post 113's Triplets started the week without their best player, Sam Tate, who received 14 stitches to his face after a swimming pool accident last Sunday.

The week continued Friday night with Waterloo right fielder Jeff Louer justifiably raising his arms in the air in triumph, his teammates rushing out to celebrate his headlong, diving catch of a line drive struck by the Triplets' Kurt Hyla. The sprawling grab in deep right-center field came with two outs, the tying run at third base, and preserved a 9-8 Waterloo victory. Had Louer missed, it's likely Hyla would have circled the bases giving the Triplets the victory.

"Oh, man," breathed Louer. "Oh, my, said the Triplets. The loss was their fourth of the week, and dropped their record to 4-8 going into play Saturday and Sunday.

The Triplets were not only folled by Louer's stunning catch but, of all things, a clump of grass. The thatch of turf caused a ball to bounce crazily in right field in the third inning, resulting in one run and quite possibly two runs Waterloo might not have otherwise scored.

Such was the way things went for the Triplets this past week. One problem will likely be settled by the July 4 tournament, when Tate may be back in action.

The Triplets' leading pitcher and one of their top sluggers needed 10 stitches to his nose and four inches to his forehead after scraping his face against an aluminum siding of a swimming pool. Tate hurt himself when he misjudged how close he was to the side of the pool while swimming under water. When surfacing, he struck his head against the siding.

One thing is lost for good, however. The Triplets' chance to break a week-long string of losses, and against one of the hottest teams in American Legion District 22 play. The victory Friday was Waterloo's ninth of the season against just two defeats.

But only by a whisker. Louer left his feet in what he termed a "desperation dive" after racing into the gap in right-center field. He caught the ball with his body flat on the ground and parallel to the infield.

"If it would've got past him (Louer), by the time he got to his feet...the ball would've been (part of the field), it definitely would have been an inside-the-park home run," said Coakley. "Because Kurt's got some wheels."

Or, as Coakley's son Keith, an assistant coach, put it, "If he (Louer) misses it, we win."

But the red-haired Louer, whose father, John, coaches the team, didn't miss. Before celebrating, Louer checked his glove. When he saw the ball was there, he turned his back to the infield and raised his arms. Then he turned and was mobbed by his teammates.

"I thought it was in the hole," he said. "I didn't think I was going to get it. It was a last chance (effort). I run," said Coakley. "Because Kurt's got some wheels."

"My spikes slid right out from under me," he said. By the time he retrieved the ball, three runs had scored. "It looked like it hit a clump of grass," said Zentgraf. "It was coming right at me. The next thing I knew it went the other way."

The next batter flied out to center field. Had not it been for the bad bounce, the Triplets would have been spared from at least one run and possibly two Waterloo runs.

The unlucky bounce didn't silence any Triplet bats. Fred Becker, Derek Merz, Roe, Eric Gray, Scott Coakley, Pat Cathey and Mark Bowen all had big blows.

A single by Bowen in the sixth scored Hyla, who had tripled. A double by Roe to right center field scored Bowen. The two runs the Triplets scored brought them to within 9-8.

The Triplets' biggest inning was their first. Gerald Becker collected the first of his two hits. Roe, Gray and Coakley also singled in the inning to spark the Triplets to their four runs. The Triplets scored two more in the third. Cathey singled to start the inning. Steve Davis walked. Gray doubled to left center to score Cathey, and Becker singled in Gray with a blow to right field.

The Triplets received a lift from Roe, who besides his hitting, hurled the distance. The game was Roe's first since returning from a church camp in Mt. Vernon.

"And he didn't even play catch down there," continued Roe's nine-year-old brother, Andy.

Coakley saw good things. "We seemed to be more aggressive at bat. We did a little more hustling. We talked more out on the field. We seemed more like a ballclub," he said.

Alas, it's difficult to win in the face of a game-winning catch and a misplaced clump of grass.

"We're going to come back, though," Coakley said. "We've still got time."

There will be other weeks.

For Wrestling, Girls Basketball

Whitaker, Hutchings named coaches

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Executive Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — Granite City High School has a new wrestling coach and a new girls basketball coach. Unit School District 9 approved the two hirings Tuesday night at its board meeting.

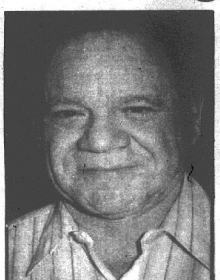

Acting on the recommendation of Terry Salem, administrative assistant for personnel, and Joe Federa, administrative assistant for athletics and physical education, the board approved the appointments of Walt Whitaker and John Hutchings to fill those positions. Whitaker will be the Warriors' head wrestling coach while Hutchings has been named as GCHS' girls basketball coach.

"I may be taking over for him (Schmitt), but I'll never be able to fill his shoes," Whitaker said Friday during an interview. "His longevity and his 60-plus dual wins is something that'll be hard to top."

Whitaker, 51, is, more or less, Schmitt's hand-picked successor to the Warrior mat coach's position. An executive vice-president of the National Wrestling Coaches' Association, Whitaker has been coaching wrestling for 25 years. Recently, the NWCA honored Whitaker for his years of service.

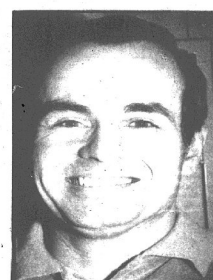

Whitaker's selection as the new Warrior mat coach not surprising. A 1961 graduate of Granite City High School, Whitaker was the captain of the Warrior wrestling team during Schmitt's inaugural season.

The last two years he has coached with Schmitt, but prior to that, he was head wrestling coach at Granite City North, a position he held for 10 years, and before that, he was head wrestling coach at Cahokia High School.

"Granite City has a fine wrestling tradition," Whitaker said. "My goal is to continue that tradition, but also to hopefully improve upon our sectional record in the team event. I'd like to see us qualify for the state meet."

Last year, in Whitaker's final year as the Warrior assistant, the Warriors lost to Springfield Southeast in the sectional team championship match.

In addition to his wrestling coaching duties, Whitaker is an assistant varsity football coach.

Like Whitaker, Hutchings' appointment to head girls basketball coach comes after a tenure as an assistant.

Coach Gordon Galbreath's assistant for two years, Hutchings says he would like to alter the girls' summer schedules.

"Many, many girls who come out for the team pick up a basketball in November and then put it down in March, when the season is over," Hutchings said.

"To be good, really good, they've got to play during the summer, all year long. I guess I see my main job as developing interest in girls basketball."

Hutchings, who's 42, teaches sixth grade at Prather Elementary School. He is also Jim Davis' assistant softball coach at GCHS, a position he will retain.

In addition to the appointments of Whitaker and Hutchings, the board approved the retention of those other coaches who served last year.

Board votes 6-1 to reinstate McBride

By BILL MILLIGAN
Staff writer

CAHOKIA — Ken McBride's career began again 10 days ago after Cahokia District 187 School Board reinstated him as a teacher and coach.

Ever since his arrest, March 9, on charges of driving under the influence of alcohol and possession of marijuana, McBride's career had been in limbo.

Had McBride been found guilty of the possession charge, state law would have demanded revocation of his Illinois teaching certificate.

On June 5, Madison County State's Attorney Richard Allen dropped the possession charge on the basis of insufficient evidence. Through attorney William Lucco, McBride pleaded guilty to the DUI charge on June 6.

McBride, 39, of Troy, was fined $500 by Madison County Circuit Court Judge Charles V. Romani and placed on a one-year court supervision.

According to Lucco, the DUI charge will be erased from his record if McBride maintains a clean driving record during that time.

McBride's arrest came just hours after his team won its first-ever regional basketball championship. The team eventually finished fourth in the state Class AA basketball tournament, but it was the embattled McBride that made headlines.

"The story had a life of its own," McBride said. "It was almost like we were being penalized for winning. The more we won the bigger the story got."

The news media blew the story out of proportion," McBride said.

Police arrested McBride for driving east in the westbound lanes of I-270 near the Route 157 exit. Madison County sheriff deputies made the arrest for driving under the influence.

Later, Pontoon Beach police arrived on the scene and found a plastic bag containing what the police report described as marijuana cigarettes on the front seat of the car. McBride was driving.

McBride's basketball team was to play O'Fallon March 14 in the first round of the state sectionals. The same Saturday, McBride was arrested, several star players on the O'Fallon team were suspended, for under-aged drinking.

Cahokia defeated O'Fallon in the sectionals and his situation took was not overlooked by O'Fallon fans.

"The O'Fallon situation made things worse," McBride said. "Everybody (McBride, his family,

'Smokies are as thick as bugs on a bumper'

ST. LOUIS — Beeped up security and crowd control was the emphasis Thursday during a press conference promoting the 1985 Car Craft Nationals.

The event, sponsored by Car Craft Magazine, is expected to attract more than 150,000 people during a three-day span at St. Louis International Raceway, located on Route 203 just south of Madison. The final day concludes on Sunday.

Tickets for the event may be purchased at the gate. The cost is $6 for adults and $2 for children 12 and under.

"First let's clarify one thing," said Harry Hibler, marketing director of Petersen Publishing Co. which publishes Car Craft, "this isn't a race. It's more like a car show."

Hibler, speaking from the Marriott Pavilion Downtown at the press gathering last week, said an estimated 4,000 cars and trucks will be on display.

"This event is really to show off what they have done to their cars," Hibler said. "After all, the cars are merely an extension of one's ego."

However, talk of the actual show was overshadowed by the crowd anticipated to be on the raceway grounds.

"There have been a lot of scare stories floating around," Hibler said. "They all have been blown out of proportion."

Rumors have circulated that Hells Angels were planning to caravan through the raceway and that the event had been "run out of Springfield" by officials there.

"That's not the case at all," said Capt. William J. Ryan, commander of the Illinois State Police District 9 in Springfield. "In fact, there were good relations by all parties."

Hibler said the event changed locations because "we simply outgrew the area." For the past three years, the Car Craft Nationals were held at the Illinois State Fairgrounds in Springfield.

Hibler said attendance at the event showed a noticeable increase each year.

In an effort to police the area, law enforcement officials have held strategy meetings for the last 5 1/2 months mapping out how they will observe the event.

"We have scheduled the largest amount of manpower on duty for any event ever," said Capt. Bobby Henry, commander of the Illinois State Police District 11 in Collinsville.

"We are aware of how the event had grown in Springfield and want to be prepared."

Henry said the state police will be assisted from county sheriff's deputies and even conservation officials.

More than 150 Illinois State troopers are expected to be in uniform to assist in traffic and crowd control.

During the event's first day on Friday, troopers were at the entrance of SLIR directing traffic and other officials were stationed along Route 203.

LOTS OF COPS. That's was the word of the thousands of car show fans attending this weekend's Car Craft Magazine Street Machine Nationals at St. Louis International Raceway located just south of Madison. When this photo was taken Friday morning, the Illinois State Police were already in full force. As many as 150 additional state troopers are on hand this weekend to police the show.

"Your main problem is traffic congestion," said Ryan.

Traffic was delayed by as much as 10 to 15 minutes on Route 203 heading to and from St. Louis, officials said. The traffic problems were also magnified since the St.

Louis Baseball Cardinals are hosting the New York Mets in an weekend series.

Troopers also said they will strictly enforce liquor laws, especially open liquor in vehicles.

"The majority of the violations which occur at this type of event are alcoholic related," said Ryan. "While we have nothing against people having a good time. We would just like them to use their better judgment."

This year's Car Craft Nationals will be the 9th annual. The displays will feature 1949 to present cars, vans and trucks. The event is sponsored by Car Craft Magazine which is published monthly and has an estimated circulation of approximately 400,000.

The event runs through Sunday, 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

76-Year-Old Granny

'Little Old Lady' visits car show

By GREGG OCHOA
Staff writer

FAIRMONT CITY — Ethel Sway sure knows how to make an entrance.

Her attire is complete with her pink, high top tennis shoes and her matching floral pattern dress with white lace collar and cuffs. Sway, better known as "Granny," caused some heads to turn.

She made a quick appearance last week at the Marriott Pavilion in St. Louis to chat about the 9th annual Car Craft Nationals. The event runs through Sunday at St. Louis International Raceway, Route 203 five minutes from Granite City.

Sway, 76, will be at the main stage from noon until 1:30 p.m. Sunday to greet visitors. She will be at the track to promote her new movie, "The Little Old Lady From Pasadena," and to film some background shots, "music video and some commercials."

"This is so much fun," she said, bubbling with youth. "All of the people I have met have been so nice."

Based on the song from the same title, the movie is set to begin production in September and is targeted for release next summer.

The film will be Sway's first major starring role after bit parts in "Gypsy" and the "The Virginian." Sway also had a cameo role in the movie "Rhinestone." She has been acting since age 12.

Sway has been married nearly 50 years (her golden anniversary is in July), but no children. She is a self-proclaimed grandmother who claims "over a million" grandchildren.

She won the part last year over approximately 100 other prospective "Granny's."

"It's a cute little movie," said Dr. Dan Altfield, who composed the original song with Jan Berry of the duo Jan and Dean. They turned it into a hit, as did The Beach Boys a few years later.

The old saying about used cars —

Granny Sway

"this one was only driven to church by a little old lady from Pasadena" — spawned the song's creation.

Altfield said he and Berry completed the tune in three days.

However, Altfield admits he never thought the concept would mushroom like it has.

"After I finished medical school I was living in Hawaii and had no idea that the song was still that popular," said Dr. Altfield, president of Little Old Lady From Pasadena Enterprises.

"It's really something."

The movie is loosely based about a high school boy who buys a "scooped-up" Mustang and when we gets into trouble returns to the owner, who is Sway, for advice.

"This has been a busy time for us," Dr. Altfield said. "It's a tough schedule, but it has been great."

Altfield said productions crew have also ready shot some scenes, for example, one simulated sequence of Sway drag racing.

What's in the future for that Little Old Lady? Altfield said he is already planning a sequel tentatively entitled "Go Granny Go."

Coaches Win Case At last, an end to a long fight

Wimbledon may be the news of the day in the sports world, but local sports enthusiasts found themselves turning from the tennis courts to the court room this week as two teachers won their discrimination suit against a local school district.

Carol Cole and Luvenia Long, both teachers and coaches in the Madison Public School District, won a two-year-old suit Thursday that claimed that district violated the Equal Pay Act of 1963. The suit, filed in 1983 and later amended to include plaintiffs Barbara Cox and Waneta Graham, claimed the women were paid less than their male co-workers for doing the same sort of work.

In addition to their regular duties, Cole coached volleyball, basketball and softball. Luvenia coached girls tennis and still coaches girls track.

Now, I'm not a lawyer, but I do know what is fair and just. Paying a girls basketball coach, who just happens to be a woman, and a boys basketball coach, who happens to be a man, differently isn't fair. Aren't they both coaching athletes about the same age? And what about the sport? Isn't girls basketball played about the same way as the boys'?

A field goal is two points. A free throw one point.

Sure they are!

And what about tennis, the sport Coach Long instructed as well as track? It's played the same way: Love, 30, 40, Game; six games to a set.

How long did the Madison School Board think the women coaches were going to put up with this?

Hey guys. If it weren't Cole and Long, it'd have been someone else. Maybe not this year or next, but somewhere down the road, surely.

I know, I know.

They say the girls sports may not draw the fans that the boys do.

And, I'll admit if it comes down to watching either men's or women's Wimbledon tennis action this weekend, I'll probably watch the men's, but it doesn't make Chris Everett-Lloyd and Martina Navratilova any less athletes than John McEnroe or Ivan Lendl.

The women compete as hard as the men.

All these coaches want to be paid the same wages for doing the same job.

Talking with Cole Friday, after a day in U. S. District Court in Alton, she said she felt like she and Luvenia had accomplished something.

In the Spotlight

By Alan L. Gerstenecker
Executive Sports Editor

"Today we, the lawyers and both sides, established some guidelines for the future, salary guidelines," Cole said.

"I walked away from that feeling very satisfied that things are going in the right direction. There was no decision made about back pay, punitive damages and actual damages," Cole said. "We didn't even get to that. We laid some foundation for the future and that's what's most important."

"Sure, I'd like to get some back pay, and if we do that's icing on the cake," Cole said. "But what's most important is I think we've established a fair pay scale for both men and women coaches."

"We rode together today (to U.S. District Court in Alton), Luvenia and I. It seems like such a long time ago — eight years — that we actually started this thing. I feel like maybe we struck some blows for women coaches. We'll never be in the situation where we'll never be able to catch up to the men's (pay scale) level."

The women are seeking back pay that could amount to $10,000 for each, and Cole and Long also asked for $10,000 each in actual damages and $20,000 each in punitive damages.

They return to Judge William L. Beatty's court Monday to see what he'll decide each party receives in damages.

"It's nearly over," Cole said. "I think everything's going to work out fine now. I'm just sorry it had to go this far."

McArthur wins medal

GRANITE CITY — Steve McArthur, 16, of Granite City recently won a gold medal in the Junior Olympics.

McArthur competed as a first-degree black belt in the 120- to 129-pound division of Tae Kwon Do. McArthur studies at Martin's Tae Kwon Do karate school in Madison.

Larry Martin who operates Martin's Tae Kwon Do Karate School has been McArthur's instructor for the past year.

McArthur's first place finish allows him to advance to the national competition in July at Triton College in Chicago.

DOC slates Eagle Creek Triathlon

SHELBYVILLE — The Department of Conservation is seeking athletes to participate in the first Eagle Creek Triathlon, scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 3 at Eagle Creek State Park on the shores of Lake Shelbyville. Plans are to make the triathlon an annual event.

According to Dick Garfat, with DOC special events, the race will coincide with dedication ceremonies for the newly constructed swimming beach at Eagle Creek.

Participants will leave the beach at 8 a.m. for a three-quarter mile swim, followed by 11 miles of biking. The triathlon concludes with a four-mile foot race. Trophies, ribbons and other prizes will be awarded to top athletes competing in the event, Garfat said.

DOC is sponsoring the race, he said, to focus attention on the need for physical fitness and to call attention to the fact that Illinois state parks offer numerous facilities for physical conditioning and exercise.

Athletes who participate must enter in advance, Garfat said. Entry applications are available at the Eagle Creek park office, and at sporting goods stores, banks and other businesses in the Lake Shelbyville area. Applications also are available by writing Garfat at the Department of Conservation, Public Lands and Historic Sites, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Participation in the race is limited to 250 competitors.

Following the race, DOC will sponsor games and contests for the least athletically inclined at the Eagle

Park Fourth begins softball tourney signup

The Granite City Park District is currently signing men's and women's teams wishing to play in its annual Fourth of July softball tournament.

According to John Lakin, recreation supervisor with the district, teams will play at each Wilson, Worthen and West Granite Parks. Championship rounds, however, will be played at Wilson and Worthen Parks.

Registration is $50 per team in the double-elimination affair which is tentatively scheduled to begin Saturday, June 29. Sixteen team brackets are currently being arranged for both tournaments.

Persons wishing further information or to register should call the Wilson Park Office at 877-3059 during business hours.

Mat clinic July 1 & 2

The Granite City Wrestling Club has scheduled a wrestling clinic July 1 and 2 at Granite City Center which will be conducted by two of the biggest names in amateur wrestling in the country.

Clar Anderson and Mike Sheets, both three-time All-Americans and national champions, will lead the camp. Sheets was named the 1984 Wrestler of the Year and has been invited to instruct a demonstration and clinic at the national tournament.

Cost of the tournament is $25 per wrestler. There will be five sessions. Persons seeking further information may call any one of three Granite City Wrestling Club members: Monte Kessler at 931-0581; Mike Trovich at 877-7651 or Tom Sparks at 451-1375.

GC's Brucky is honored

AURORA — Craig Brucky of Granite City was honored recently at Aurora University's annual Sports Award Banquet.

Coach Bob Graham presented the fourth-year award to Brucky for his participation in Spartan soccer during the 1984 season. The Spartans finished their season with a 9-7-1 record.

Brucky, a 1981 graduate of Granite City North High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brucky of Granite City.

Reynolds is named East's new cage coach

BELLEVILLE — When Jim Reynolds takes the court next winter to guide the Belleville East basketball program, he will be only the second coach in the school's 19-year history.

Reynolds was hired Monday as the Lancers' new boy's basketball coach by the District 201 Board of Education. Reynolds replaces Don Otnes who resigned in March.

For the past four years, Reynolds had been head coach at Crete-Monee High School (near Chicago) where he compiled a 56-22 record. Prior to that, Reynolds was an assistant coach at the school.

Last season, Crete-Monee was 22-7 and won its first regional championship. The Warriors, however, lost in the finals of the sectionals.

Reynolds will inherit a Belleville East team that finished at 9-15 (5-5 in the Southwestern Conference). The Lancers, despite having the area's premier big man in 6-11 Gary Leons, lost 47-46 to Belleville West in the first round of the regional tournament.

The new Lancer coach is a graduate of Galesburg High School. Reynolds played high school basketball at Galesburg and at Carl Sandburg Junior College. He also attended the School of the Ozarks in Point Lookout, Mo.

McBride

the team and the school board) was behind the eight-ball."

On March 11, the school board suspended McBride from coaching and teaching duties at the school.

McBride went to court the same day and gained an injunction that would allow him to continue coaching until conclusion of the season.

"At that point anything we did could have been a publicity stunt," McBride said. "I understood the district's position."

McBride, who reached the championship level of IHSAA basketball competition for the first time in his 16-year coaching career, was at the center of a storm of controversy.

"Instead of being the happiest and best part of my career, it was the worst," McBride said.

McBride's team won the sectional championship and advanced to super-sectional play against Carbondale. From there the Comanches advanced to the state quarterfinals and defeated Ottawa to become one of the state's final four.

"The players thought we were getting a bad rap from the papers," McBride said. "It (the controversy) may have brought us together more. We had a good season. The players tightened their belt and played together."

Cahokia finished fourth in the IHSAA state finals and returned home to a parade in their honor March 24. The next day, the school board suspended McBride, with pay, until the matter was resolved by the courts.

During his suspension, McBride was not allowed on school property. He was not in the classroom with his students, he was not allowed to attend graduation. When his team was given an awards banquet in May, McBride was not allowed to attend.

McBride normally holds a basketball camp for elementary and junior high school kids during the first week of school is out. This year, the camp was not held.

"Just the things I am normally used to doing," he said. "I couldn't do any of them."

"People thought I had it made," McBride said. "I tried to convince myself of that, but after two days, it wasn't any fun."

"I enjoy teaching. I missed being around the kids. I think that by not having the basketball camp has penalized the kids in some ways," he said.

"I was home, reading about myself in the papers," McBride said. "I always thought I had a good rapport with news people, but I couldn't talk to them. My lawyers forbid it. Anything I said could hurt me."

"I felt like a time bomb, waiting to go off," he said.

With a 6-1 vote, district 187-school officials diffused the bomb on June 24, by reinstating McBride to his former duties as a coach and teacher.

The only dissenting vote was cast by board member Jim Daniel. "I've known Ken McBride all of his life," Daniel said. "My no vote speaks for itself."

"The board was concerned that it might appear it has a double standard for teachers and students," said board member Chris Demetrius.

"Some board members wondered how it would look if an athlete broke a rule," Demetrius said. "My contention was that the kids aren't 21 anyway, so their situation would be different than coach McBride's."

"There was no big debate. Everyone agrees that he (McBride) made a mistake. He has paid a price. It is time to carry on from there."

McBride said he would continue to run his basketball program the same way he has run it for the last eight seasons.

"If a kid breaks a rule, we'll deal with it the same way we always have. For 10 years, this has been one of the most disciplined programs at Cahokia high, we're not going to change anything," McBride said.

"I could have hurt someone on that road. I could have hurt myself. I have hurt my family. I've never been a big drinker."

"I'm not coming back with any hard feelings," he said. "I've been a part of Cahokia basketball for 32 years."

"It's good to be back."
